COLD RANGE PROCEDURE

When calling for a “cold range”:

- A. First check with all persons on the firing line to make sure they are ready for a “cold range”.
- B. Stop and look both directions along the firing line to make sure everyone is back behind the yellow line and not handling firearms.
- C. When people are downrange, do not handle any firearms, this includes taking rifles and pistols off the tables or racks. Uncased firearms must have their actions open and chamber flags inserted in the chamber. All ammunition and magazines must be removed from the firearms before people may move forward of the firing line.

HOT RANGE PROCEDURE

Make sure everyone is behind the firing line and they understand the firing line is going “hot”.

CEASE FIRE

A “Cease Fire” may be called by anyone for any safety concern. “Resume Fire” may be called once the safety concern has been resolved.
